

Stephanie Woodward

Stephanie Woodward began ballet at the age of 3 in New York. She studied dance at her studio and also has taken master classes at St. Bonaventure College in New York. She began at a young age teaching children, by studying alongside the dance school's mistress as her 'aid.' From there she began teaching her own classes, clinics, and workshops, even forming the Dance Team for her High School, which was the first Dance Group the school had ever had. Stephanie has since taught all ages in New York, Alaska, Arkansas, and Alabama (as she is also an Army Wife). Stephanie has performed with the New York City ballet in their world renown "Nutcracker" performance and has traveled the US teaching at different studios. Ballet is Stephanie's passion and she loves teaching it to the young students to help begin their love for the art of ballet.